Land is a vulnerable resource

Land is the source of all life on earth. However, land is also a vulnerable resource that needs to be managed properly..

The Working groups of FIG's Commission 7 focus on this management by looking into the development of advanced cadastre and land administration, the development of innovative, advanced technology in land administration, and the creation of secure land tenure.

Since we need all the help we can in our work, we encourage all to join one or more of the working groups and offer their help. Contact us here. Everyone is welcome!
